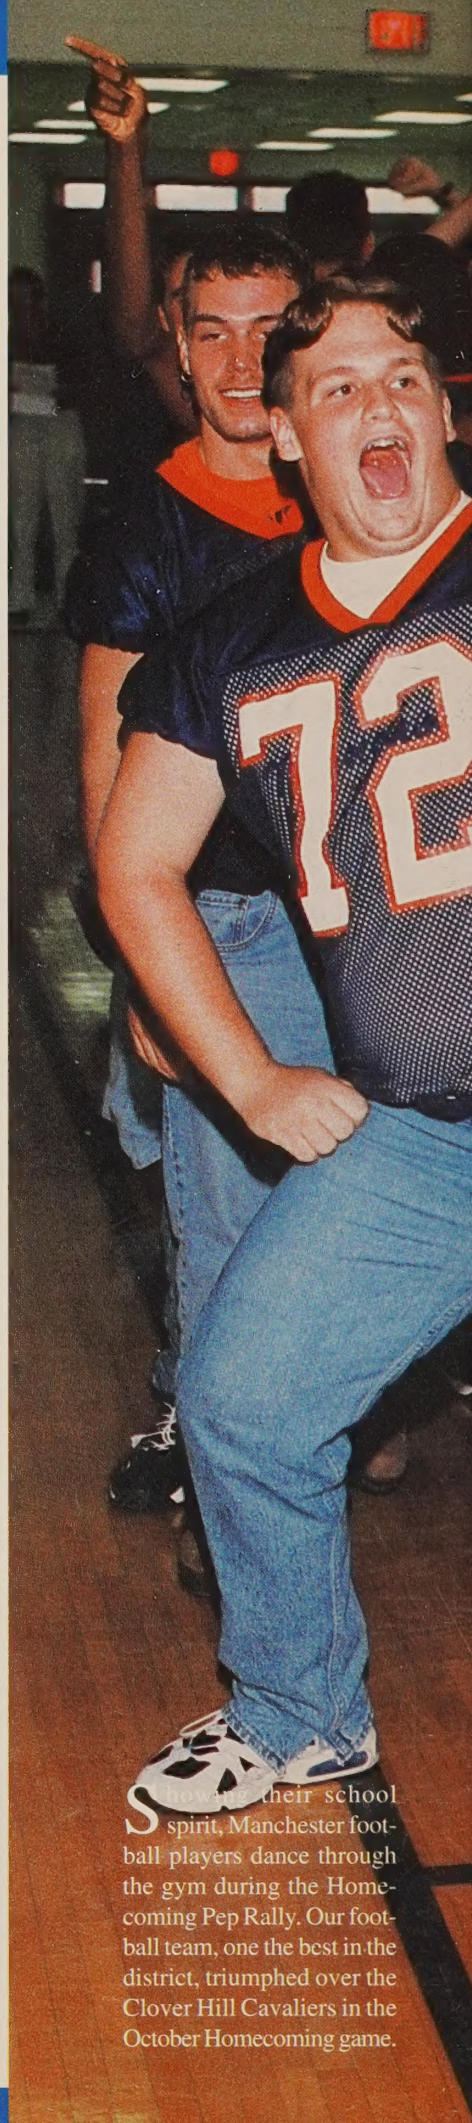
THE BIG ORANGE

From orientation to graduation, the seventy-fourth year of the Big Orange was full of fun and excitement. Large changes such as the switch to block scheduling combined with small stresses such as exams to produce many challenges for this year's Lancers, but the student body proved their spirit and came out on top in June. Events such as Homecoming Week in October and Prom in May, as well as pep rallies, soc hops, blood drives, and school plays, helped to make student life colorful and varied. Manchester met a new family of faces at these school-wide events due to the arrival of the largest freshmen class ever, and these fledgling Lancers made a welcome addition to the already large and diverse student body. Guiding these students, our fearless faculty once again provided their wisdom and knowledge to lead the Lancers through another year. Another important feature of Manchester was our outstanding sports program, which demonstrated the persistance and winning spirit of our school. Manchester students also excelled in academics, shining in every subject from Physics to Family Living. Balancing these tough courses with a variety of extra-curricular activities, Lancers participated in clubs and orginizations all across the school, enriching their knowledge of other cultures and their community. As the busy year drew to a close, seniors enjoyed the benefits of their status during the class banquet, Baccalaureate, and finally, the sad farewell of graduation. Throughout the year, Manchester students experienced every aspect of the Big Orange. From Calculus to Comunity Service to Steppers to Spanish Club, Lancers proved that every part of Manchester has been truly "appealing!"



Showing their school spirit, Manchester football players dance through the gym during the Homecoming Pep Rally. Our football team, one the best in the district, triumphed over the Clover Hill Cavaliers in the October Homecoming game.

"I love this school . . . the people, the atmosphere, the events . . . My years at Manchester will be something I will never forget."

LANCER LIFE

A Slice of Life

Sunkist Summer

This past summer many Manchester students found themselves doing very interesting things. Many students traveled to distant states and countries, worked for the less fortunate, and attended educational schools. Senior Jamie L. Harper spent one week of her summer in Las Vegas, Nevada visiting famous hotels, restraunts and casinos. Ashley M. Reynolds spent most of her summer working for Teen Missions International. She trained for weeks at mission boot camp, and then went on to Northern Territory, Australia; she worked in the fields with people, harvesting bananas as a missionary. Michael R. Clark spent one great week of his summer in Petersburg with his church. He helped repair houses for the poor and the elderly. Jessica A. Quarles was also a missionary this past summer. She, like Ashley, worked with Teen Missions International as she traveled to Burkina Faso, Africa to teach the village people how to farm and support themselves.

With trips to Africa, Arizona, Austrailia, Greece and Italy, MHS students' summers were anything but boring...

Adam W. Boyles went with some of his extended family to Arizona where they saw the Grand Canyon. A group of Manchester students and two sponsoring teachers took a trip to Greece and Italy, where they saw many famous attractions. John C. Chappell attended the Govener's Latin Academy for three weeks. He enjoyed this educationl experiance. What a variety of activities! These students' advantures seem to represent the diverse and enjoyable break shared by all Manchester students. What a sweet summer!

"I got to experience foreign culture. I learned to harvest bananas!"

-Ashley M.Reynolds, on her trip to Austrailia

Michael R. Clark repairs this Petersburg home with a group from his church. By helping those less fortunate, he not only gave to the community, but he also took back a lot with him.

Jessica A. Quarles takes a break in the shade of a grass hut with her missionary host. This resting moment was much needed due to the strenuous but rewarding work she did in the African fields. Jessica was not only there to be a missionary; she also served as a worker in the fields and farming teacher. Jessica described her trip to Africa as fun, educational and sad. She is now more appreciative of American conviences and lifestyles. The mission taught Jessica humility, compassion, appreciation and hardwork.

Adam W. Boyles and his cousin climb this historical monument while on their trip in Arizona.

At the Governor's Latin Academy, where he spent 3 weeks of his summer, John Chappell acts in the play Curculio.

Mary N. Kasdaglis, Amy L. Parsons, Ladonna K. Sewell and Allison L. Toth sit on a boulder patch overlooking the Mediterranian Sea. They are part of a group from Manchester including Annie A. Coy, Mackenzie L. Clements, Jeff J. Hazam, Heather L. Simmons, Amanda L. Griffin, Carol Bass, and Cathy Pendelton that went on a ten day student tour of Greece and Italy in August.

Psychadelic Orange

Where else but our very own Manchester could you go to rejoin the decade of our parents' youth? How else could you return to a time of bobby socks and love bugs? Who would want to miss such a "way cool" event? Not many Lancers did, and the Commons was packed when the Social Studies Department sponsored a fifties-sixties soc hop in the fall. Students recieved extra credit in history for attendance and for costumes, and some pretty "far out duds" emerged from the dark and dusty corners of our closets. Because the dance covered the fashions of both decades, styles ranging from James Dean to Janis Joplin were seen dancing through the halls. Students enjoyed the best music from the past; the Beatles, Chubby Checker, Herman's Hermits, and many other great oldies were played. What was the reaction to the Soc Hop? Everyone who attended seemed to have a wonderful time! Many students commented that they had only come for the extra credit, but stayed longer than they had planned becuase they enjoyed the music and time with friends. Far out, man!

Manchester returns to the fifties and sixties with poodle skirts and love beads! Welcome to our retro soc hop...

"The Soc Hop was better than Homecoming because it was relaxed and informal. Plus, I went for extra credit!"

Like Apples and Oranges

Lancers saw quite a roll reversal in the fall when the junior and senior girls donned flags and football jerseys and left the skirts and makeup to those manly Manchester men. For three weeks before the big game, Lady Lancers worked long hours after school running drills and learning plays. The boys kept busy with cheering practice, receiving tips from some members of the cheering squad to perfect their style. They sported attractive new uniforms and, of course, plenty of hairspray! A part of Homecoming week excitement, the appearance at school of both male and female Powderpuff participants drew spectators to the game held just days before the school's Homecoming Game. In the weeks before the game, posters and banners around the school bore marks of the Powderpuff players; slogans cheering on both teams were slashed and rewritten repeatedly in favor of the opponents. This intense rivalry proved to be just a part of the tradition as the girls battled for class supremacy. On the night of the game, both teams played extremely well. With the help of great encouragement from the cheering squad, the seniors claimed victory with an outstanding score of 12-0. Better luck next year, juniors!

Pulp Fiction

Laughter and suprises ruled the stage when Manchester's Tryptic Players brought "Anything Goes" to life late in October. This play gave students the opportunity to demonstrate a variety of talents in the performing arts; dancers and chorus members as well as actors worked together to make the show a huge sucess. Numbers such as "You're the Top," "It's Delovely," and "Blow Gabriel, Blow" both entertained and amused audience members. Mrs. Halbert, Manchester's dedicated drama teacher, devoted long hours and unfailing patience to ensure that everything ran smoothly. Also essential were the talents of Chesney N. Reinhardt, stage manager, and our backstage, sound, and lighting crews. Thanks go to members of Manchester's band, who handled the music beautifully. As always, everyone involved put in many long rehearsals to put on a wonderful play. As Tropicana says, "you can't pick a better group!"

A Harvest of Creativity

The 1996 school year started with more confusion than usual. Ever since the school board decided to use the block schedule, giving students only three 90 minute classes a day, students anticipated the struggle. The problem was obvious: mass confusion. But what was the solution? Several students at Manchester found creative ways to overcome this obstacle. To help her days run smoothly, freshman Mary C. Willing designed a colorful schedule divided into even and odd days.

Manchester makes the switch from a six period day to a seven period block schedule with unusual results...

If decorating your locker with a schedule isn't your thing, how about labeled book bags? Senior Wesley R. Peters came up with a simple yet logical approach to staying organized--two backpacks labeled "even"and "odd". Wes' "goal was to stay organized this year and this [was] the best way." Groups such as the debate team took advantage of the 12 minutes in the morning that the schedule allows by selling Otis Spunkmeyer cookies between the first two classes of every day. The block schedule has brought about many changes: schedules in lockers, multi-backpacks and early morning cookie sales. Like it or not, this switch has been taken in stride, like the other many changes in a high school student's life.

"The first couple of weeks it was helpful, but now it's just a locker decoration."

-Mary C. Willing

With a twelve minute break between their first and second classes, students purchase drinks and cookies from the debate team.

For some students, having two different colored backpacks is helpful. James A. Vaughn demonstrates his sysetm of orginization.

"I have taken the wrong backpack to class, that's why I always have the other one in my truck."

-Wesley R. Peters

Hour-and-a-half long classes can seem to stretch on forever, as these Earth Science students can testify to.

Orange and Blue Vs. Green and Gold

When the Big Orange faced off against the Clover Hill Cavaliers for the Homecoming Game, spirits ran high and competition was fierce. Could the Lancers pull a victory against this impressive adversary? It had been a great season for the football team; our record was outstanding , and it looked as if we might become district champion. Many of the players entered the game with a ton of confidence and optomism. Rain on the night of the game postponed the parade and game until a later date, but school spirit didn't suffer. Even with a slight delay, the team came ready to play and ready to win. The Lancers played a terrific game, and their hard work paid off. Success was ours! Manchester won the game with an incredible final score of 22-7. A victory for this special game definitely added to the magic of homecoming weekend. Thanks go out to all of the players and coaches for their hard work!

Big Spirit

During Homecoming Week in October, everyone at Manchester showed that we had spirit in a Big way. In the week before the homecoming game, students dressed daily for school-related themes. Monday was Hat Day, and everyone was eager to break the normal school rules by wearing their favorite hat. On Tuesday, the brilliant colors of sixties attire brightened the halls for Tye-Dye Day. Wednesday brought throwbacks from a decade in the past with 80's Day. Everyone saw double on Thursday when students dressed for Twin Day. Orange and Blue Day capped the week off on Friday, filling the halls with the colors of Manchester. Both classes and clubs participated in competitions for door decorations, dance decorations, spirit links, and homecoming floats. Everyone's enthusiasm made spirit week great!

Orange of the Nile

Homecoming night stood out in many of our minds like a "Jewel of the Nile." Many couples walked in from the cold October night to find a transformed open commons full of elegantly dressed dancing Lancers. The theme fit the night; the mood was light and airy, and memories, sure to shine like "jewels," were in the making. The DJ elevated the level of excitement with favorite tunes, new and old. Everyone enjoyed doing the "YMCA" and dancing to the famous song "Shout!" The DJ did slow it down with romantic songs by Boyz II Men and classics like "Stairway to Heaven," which all the couples appreciated. The courtyard was beautifully decorated and visited by all despite the cold temperature. The "Nile" flowed through the entire dance passing along side pyramids, palm trees and other Egyptian motifs. The evening proved to be magical for many of the Lancers, with moments of fun and romance that they will remember for a long time. The spirit of mystique and lavish luxury most often associtated with Egypt definitely fit the mood of the Lancers for their Homecoming evening. The incredible decorations and the happenin' music helped to make Manchester's Homecoming truly a "Jewel of the Nile."

The Senior Homecoming Court anxiously awaits the annoucement of the King and Queen as the rest of the crowd gathers to see who the winners will be.

Crave the Wave

It was a tight fit but we managed; every spirited lancer brought Spirit Week to an end by piling into the gym. The cheerleaders led the students in cheers which often turned into spirit competitions. The spirit rose even more as the Lancer Dancers and Steppers entertained the student body with their performances. The homecoming court was announced grade by grade, and later the varsity team danced out in a single file procession, egged on by uninterrupted laughter. The highlight of the Pep Rally was the skit preformed by Principal Koste, Andris L. Rivers and Dwayne C. Gaines. Mr. Koste was commending everyone on their wonderful participation and behavior when two supposed UPS "delivery men" arrived, bringing him a package containing a rubber chicken and a mock note from Clover Hill calling us "chickens." Everyone burst into laughter as the "delivery men" Andris and Dwayne threw the chicken and note on the ground and began to dance to the comical rap song "Jump On It." Overall, the excitement and spirit of both the crowd and the athletes made the PepRally a sure success.

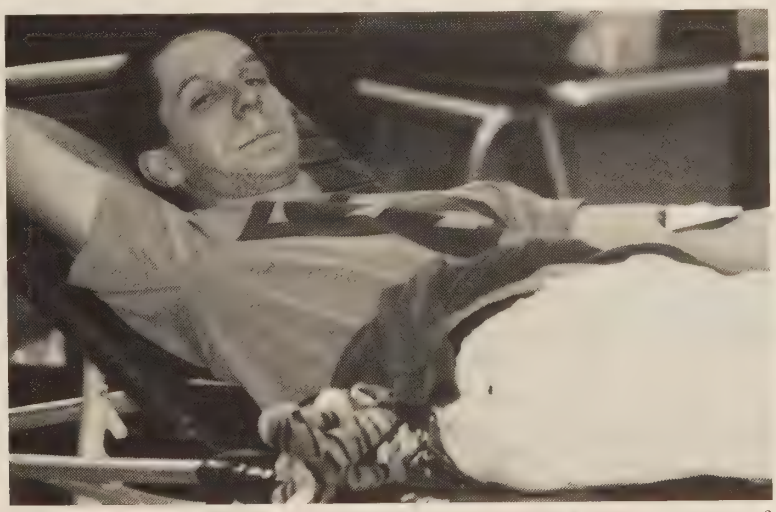
Giving from the Grove

What's the best way to save lives, help out the community, and get out of class? For Manchester students, the semi-annual Blood Drive is the answer to all of these questions. This year Manchester students had the opportunity to participate in two blood drives, as the Community Service Classes organized one drive in the fall and the SCA organized another in the spring. For some students giving blood was a new and frightening experience. "I'd never donated blood before," admits junior Elaina Velasquez. "It was really scary at first, but it didn't hurt so much after a while." Other students had no problems with the drive. "This was my second time,' says junior Casey K. Ellett. "I mostly liked getting out of class." In fact, many students seemed to enjoy the prolonged break from academics. Donating blood can take a while because every student must answer a series of questions before they can begin the actual process. Senior Matthew H. Lavender found that "the questions they asked were really weird. I've never done most of the stuff they asked about." Students were not the only people to become heroes through the drive. Many teachers, like our fearless Mr. Henry, have donated blood for years. In the tradition of past drives, this year's effort was once again tremendous from both those who ran the blood drives and those who donated. Overall, the unsqueamish and generous nature of Manchester's Lancers made both blood drives an incredible sucess!

William D. Tucker winces bravely as he helps to save three lives. "It wasn't so bad," he admits later.



Robert N. Reese looks calm and cool as he donates blood. A veteran of the school blood drive, Robbie waits patiently (with Tigger at his side) for the bag to fill.

On the evenings of April 17, 18, and 19th, an evening of one-acts was put on by the Manchester Drama Department and directed by Ms.Carol Halbert. After rehearsing for two and a half months,the night was a success. Through these comedies, a lighter side of life was portrayed. "The Actor's Nightmare" proved to be a hilarious look at theatre. And, on a more serious note, the drama "The Brick and the Rose" showed the downward spiral of substance abuse and brought tears to many eyes. "The Philadelphia," "Sure Thing," and "The Universal Language" were also great successes. This evening of one acts, the Spring's "Pulp Fiction," proved to amuse not only the audience, but the actors and crew who worked so hard to bring out each of their characters.

Adam T. Warriner and Matthew D. Sthreshley blunder through Shakespeare in the hilarious comedy "The Actor's Nightmare."

The Top of the Crop

The end of May 1997 brought about the long overdue celebration of the student. Once again, all of Manchester came to see their best and brightest shine in the annual end of year award ceremony in which the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors were each honored for their academic achievements. For many, it was a time of pride, with the awarding of an academic letter or an academic star. Others were recognized by peers, faculty and parents for their outstanding achievements in the subjects of mathematics, science, English, foreign language, health and physical education, and the fine arts. As is the tradition of Manchester, each award assembly installed the new class officers for the upcoming year. For their second year, Tyler W. Poindexter and Kendall H. Richardson remained president and vice president of their rising sophomore class, while newcomers Lindsey C. Moore and Erin A. Sabates were respectively inducted as secretary and treasurer. As a gift from the class, the new sophomores presented Assistant Principal Betty Ballard with a special gift for all of her support. The rising junior class elected President Scott D. Martin, Vice President James E. Walrod, Secretary Sarah E. Tuck and Treasurer Jackie A. Quinlan. And last but not least, the rising seniors of the class of 1998 called into office for a second term, the truly supportive Chanelle L. Jefferson as president. Under her leadership, the offices of treasurer, secretary, and historian were respectively presented to Michael D. Malone, Michael E. Moss, and Dana M. Angell. As is mandatory at an SCA awards ceremony, the newly elected SCA officers were also announced. The new President, Erin F. Hobgood, was officially inducted by the ever-cheerful SCA President Cameron A. Miller. The other officers who were elected were: Jessica A. Quarles as vice president, John T. Murray as treasurer, Woon N. Chow as secretary, and Edwin J. Walent as historian. If these assemblies are any indication of the following school year, Manchester has a bright future ahead.

Freshmen candidates for sophomore class office receive a round of applause from their peers, parents, and teachers.

One Enchanted Evening

On May 3, 1997 prom-goers ventured once again to the magical realms of "One Enchanted Evening." V.C.U.'s ballroom was host to a night of memories and enchantment for all. Through the work of the junior class council, the ballroom portrayed a time of magical and mystical romance. Elegant dresses and tailored tuxedoes packed the dance floor, as Lancers swayed to the soulful melodies of love. The night captivated and delighted many, as well as the announcement of the prom court and the crowning of Rob Armistead and Cameron Miller as King and Queen. The night ended with an all night prom party at Cloverleaf Mall. There, Lancers gambled for fun, had the chance to win mega bucks from the money machine, and entered the drawing for many different door prizes. All in all, Prom '97 truly was "One Enchanted Evening."

The Mock Wedding

"Goin' to the chapel and we're gonna get married...Gee, I really love you, and we're gonna get married... Goin' to the chapel of love."

Students from Mrs. Tortorella's Family Living classes experienced marriage for the first time. At Hopewell United Methodist Church, these students took their vows in front of their parents and fellow students. Reverend Dunkum performed the service. These students learned that marriage is not just saying, "I do," and walking down the aisle. Some students catered the wedding; others took pictures. Manchester's hallways were spotted with tuxedos and evening gowns. Students enjoyed the mock wedding and learned from it. They learned that it was a lot harder than it looks. Feel The Rush

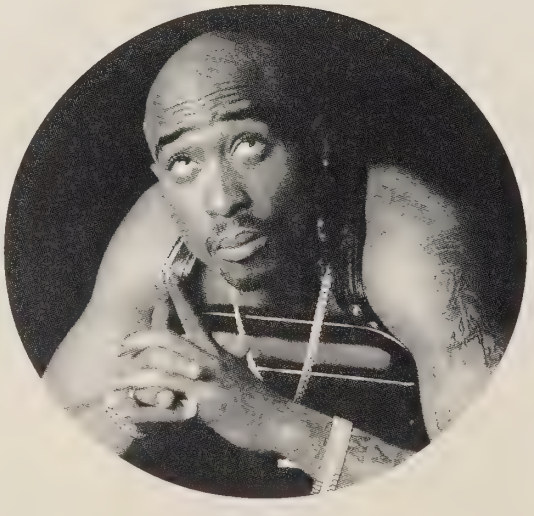
Has late night cramming got your mind in a frenzy? Do you feel like a walking zombie the next day at school? In mid January, just around exam time, students of Manchester High School experienced yet another grueling time of hitting the books. This year, however, something came about that revolutionized last minute studying. Instead of the usual caffeinated high brought on by coffee, a new stimulant came into play. Unlike its other "green" counterparts, Surge has a unique taste all its own, as well as a sugar rush that will keep you going, and going, and going like the Energizer Bunny!

A Suggestion of Death

Gangsta rap star, Tupac Shakur, grew up in poverty and lived the life he rapped about. The controversies surrounding his September 1996 (Friday the 13th) death are still being questioned. After receiving massive chest wounds from a shooting in Las Vegas, Shakur remained in a coma until his death. The irony of this whole situation revolves around Shakur's violent depiction of ghetto life through his so called "rhythmic poetry." People still question whether or not Shakur's death is real or whether it is just another Hollywood scheme to boost record sales.



Rise of the Muppet

In the 80's it was Cabbage Patch Kids; in the early 90's it was Mighty Morphin' Power Rangers. The Christmas of 1996, however, found consumers seeing a little red Muppet named Elmo appear under their trees. At a retail price of about $35, the "Tickle Me Elmo" doll flew off of shelves faster than one could say " Big Bird is too yellow for his own good." Why he is so popular is anyone's guess. Elmo merchandise has skyrocketed since his arrival several months ago. There was such a high demand that Tyco, the company behind this mastermind project, had to create almost one million more to meet the demand. Elmo is quickly becoming one of the most widely known Muppets from "Sesame Street" ever. Jim Henson would have been proud.

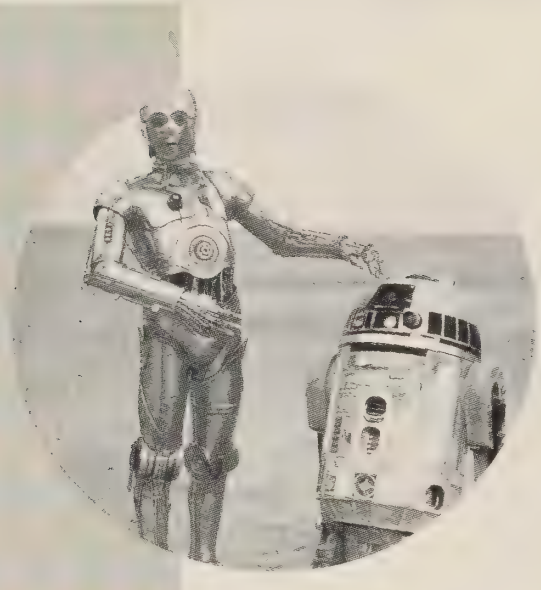
A slice of the times



"Pulp" Up The Volume

This year music became more varied and had a lot more cross-over success. Several artists and bands were either headed by or made up of all women. Two of the biggest success stories this year were No Doubt and LeAnn Rimes.

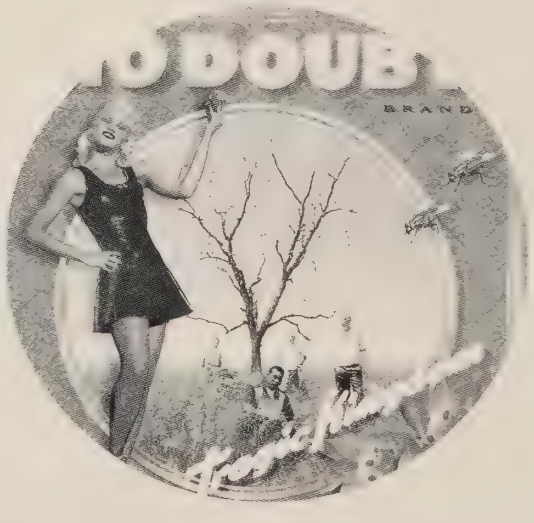
No Doubt was big on the alternative scene for a while before they crossed-over with their album "Tragic Kingdom." Hits that included "Just A Girl," "Spiderwebs," and "Don't Speak" moved Gwen Stefani and her band members to the top of the charts for over a month, which is an achievement since the album had been out for over a year.

LeAnn Rimes burst onto the country and pop music scenes this year as one of the youngest country singers ever. At age 14, she cut her first album "Blue," and was awarded several Grammys at the 1997 ceremony, from its title track. She easily crossed-over to the pop charts and topped the country charts several times.

The music scene is now more equal with women at the top of the charts, making the "boys club" a far cry from popularity. Just please hold back those rowdy Spice Girls!

Intergalactic Success

A long time ago, in a galaxy far, far away... George Lucas created a science-fiction film that has been revived, much to the joy of moviegoers: "Star Wars." The phenomenal success of this movie has never died out over its 20-year period and is now the most successful movie ever, beating out "E.T." As well as its two successful sequels, "The Empire Strikes Back" and "Return of the Jedi," "Star Wars" was also rereleased on January 31st, February 21st, and March 14th, 1997, respectively. This film has given Hollywood of some the most famous characters in history, such as Darth Vader, Princess Leia, with her Danish-roll hairdo, Luke Skywalker, Han Solo, Chewbacca, C-3PO, R2-D2, Yoda, and the adorable Ewoks. Lines like "Luke, I am your father" and "May the Force be with you" are commonplace in today's society. The showings have sold out at a steady pace at local theaters because of the incentive of "newly enhanced digital effects" and new scenes that could not have been included 20 years ago.



"I believe entertainment can aspire to be art, and you can become art, but if you set out to make art you're an idiot."

- Steve Martin

Year of the Woman

In 1972 Title IX, an education bill upgrading the quality and funding for women's sports, was passed. Since then, U.S. women athletes have come into their own in the once male-oriented world of competitive sports. This new generation of women not only excel within their talents, but as role models and heroes to little girls all over the country. This year was the year of the woman at the Olympics. U.S. women won 19 of the nation's 44 gold medals in Atlanta, and much of it was due to Title IX, which took affect during the childhood and teenage years of so many of the athletes. For gold medalist winners the chance to even go to the Olympics is a huge honor, but to be a woman and to win is an even greater accomplishment.

Award-Winning Women Speak Out

"People in the States used to think that if girls were good at sports their sexuality would be affected. Being feminine meant being a cheerleader, not being an athlete. The image of women is changing now. You don't have to be pretty for people to come and see you play. At the same time, if you're a good athlete, it doesn't mean you're not a woman."

- Martina Navratilova

Other Olympic Winners

- Amy Van Dyken won the gold in the 50-meter freestyle, 100-meter butterfly, 4 x 100 freestyle relay, and the 4 x 100 medley relay for the U.S. Womens Swim Team.

- Gail Devers, who struggles with Graves' disease, a thyroid disorder, proved herself at the Olympic Games through her ability to beat the odds, and win the gold for the 100-meter and the 4 x 100 relay.

Vault of a Lifetime

The summer of '96 proved to be an unforgettable one. With the 100 year anniversary of the Olympic Games, proudly hosted in Atlanta, Georgia, the making of heroes was predominant. On a night, much like any other night, a group of girls watched as one of their own fell, only to rise again a true hero. For Kerri Strug, Olympic gymnast, one falter created a whirlwind of pride and the beginnings of what became known to all as the epitome of teamwork. The U.S. Women's Gymnastic Team took the gold and the hearts of millions with Kerri Strug's triumphant last stand.

Allen's Appeal

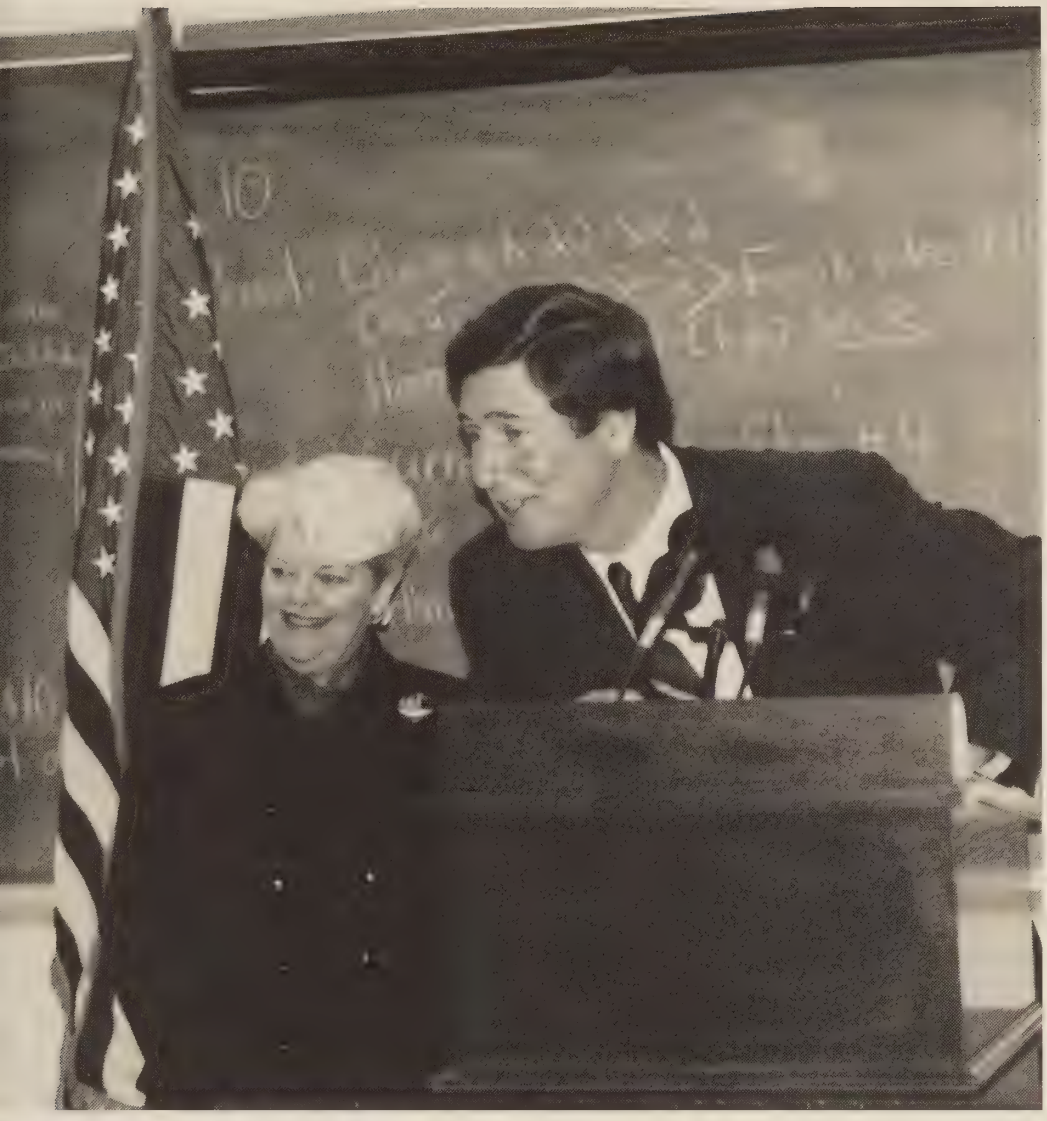
Accompanied by photographers, his own staff members, and Superintendent Dr. William Bosher, Governor George Allen visited Manchester High School on December 12 to discuss new plans for education and funding in Virginia schools. Among other things, the Governor emphasized granting immunity rights to teachers, targeting and preventing illiteracy, reiterating the importance of Virginia's Standards for Learning, and putting more graphing calculators and technological equipment into classrooms. Mr. Cox, who arranged the event through his political connections, and a handful of politically interested teachers attended the press conference. In addition, upperclassmen who had demonstrated strong leadership within the school were invited to hear the Governor speak. Plus, members of the news media, equipped with cameras, notepads, and questions, crowded into the tiny classroom. Overall, Governor Allen made a strong impression, connecting well with students and faculty alike as he took the time to shake hands and chat with everyone. With a bright smile, words of encouragement, and promises of higher standards of education, Governor Allen proved to Manchester that he truly has a special appeal!

Governor Allen makes a special trip to Manchester to discuss his plans for Virginia's education . . .

"It was a great experience to meet the governor and hear him talk. I was very honored."

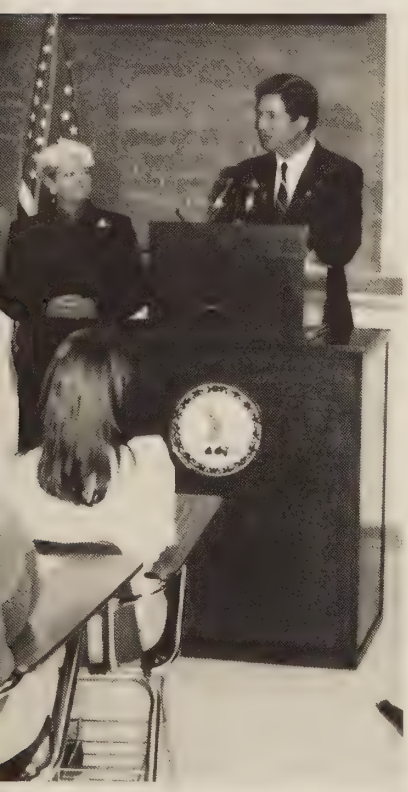
-Sara K. Harold

Cameron A. Miller shakes hands with Allen following the conference. The Governor took the time to greet many of the students and speak with each of them briefly.



Governor Allen leans forward to address his audience with earnest emotion. Such heartfelt speeches and enthusiastic deliveries have earned the Governor much respect during his years in government.

Mr. Cox assumes an expression familiar to all of his Government students as he listens intently to the Governor.



Governor Allen addresses the teachers and administration in the audience on topics dealing with education and school funding.

Appy G. Hayes and Thomas S. Uzzle, two of the students invited to attend the conference, listen respectfully to the Governor's address.

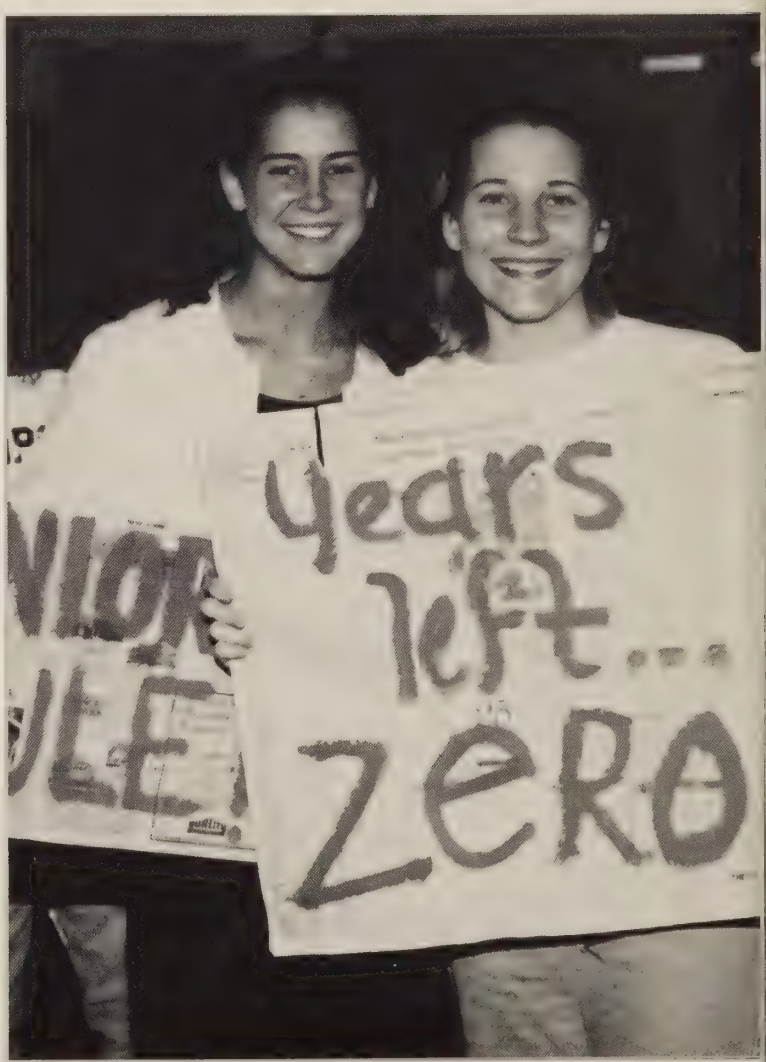
Seniors

After four years they've become the Premium Grade

Almost 500 Seniors started their countdown to liberation on September 3, 1996. All anticipated the BIG moment...walking across the stage; however, the hardest part would be getting there. Everyone stressed over the new seven-period block schedule, Manchester's exemption policy, sending out college applications and waiting for acceptance letters. Seniors once again defeated the Juniors in the annual Powderpuff game and danced the night away at their final Homecoming Dance, Jewel of the Nile. First semester exams soon passed, and Seniors began making plans for Beach Week. May again brought Prom at the the VCU Ballroom. As the spring days became longer, the BIG day got closer. We all knew the time was soon approaching when we would have to say good-bye to the ORANGE and blue. Finally, on Friday, June 13, 1997 we gathered at the Richmond Coliseum dressed in caps and gowns, looking back at our days at Manchester High School and looking forward to what the world held for us. Good Luck and Best Wishes to the Class of 1997!



Friends Forever! Shelley R. Lang and Andrea C. Campos enjoy lunch in the open commons.

Alexis P. Butler and Kathryn L. Benner express their school spirit and seniority at the Homecoming pep rally.

"The Search"

I went to find the pot of gold
That's waiting where the rainbow ends.
I searched and searched and searched, and then-
There it was, deep in the grass,
Under an old and twisty bough.
It's mine, it's mine,
it's mine at last...
What do I search for now?

You are standing on top of a twelve story building. You look down to the street far below. You think back to the staircase that you climbed to reach the roof. You remember all of the people you met...some going up and some going down. You climb with some of them for a while, but soon they all fade away. And here you are on top and all alone. You turn to retreat down the staircase, and you notice a sign on the door. "No reentry" it reads; "Only one way down." You peer over the edge, and suddenly you jump. Your heart flies to your throat as you plummet toward the street. And then you see them standing there. Your parents and teachers, your friends and family fill the streets. They stand there, heads turned up...all watching you as you fall toward them. "Oh," you think, "please don't let them see me like this. Please don't let them see me fall!" You struggle in the air and gradually your decent slows. You begin to climb into the sky, and the streets below are filled with cheering. Soon, the people are no longer visible, and you find that the air beneath your feet is replaced by solid ground. When you look up you realize that you are standing at the foot of another staircase that is bigger and more beatutiful than the one from which you came. Your heart is filled with joy and hope and excitement as you begin to ascend the steps. You think back to all the people in the street: your family and teachers and friends. You know that with the knowledge and wisdom that they gave you that you can climb this staircase and face all the obstacles that it holds. With every step you get closer to the top. And you know that you will succeed. I wish the best of luck to all of you as you fly from this roof and climb whatever staircase you choose.

In their last year serving the Class of 1997, senior class officers Andra L. Teten, president; Megan A. Hall, vice president; Kelly P. Thornton, secretary; Patrick J. Creehan, treasurer; and Sara K. Harold, historian, participated in many services. In October the officers prepared the Homecoming float and decorations, along with Graduation Orders. Continuing to stay busy, the officers supported a Thanksgiving family and sent shirts to children in Panama in November. "As a holiday gift, we gave a breakfast for the teachers with the junior class officers," said Vice President, Megan Hall. It was soon time to prepare for the Senior Banquet, Baccalaureate, and the Graduation ceremony. The senior class officers hard work paid off; the class of 1997 had a very successful year.

Munden - Powers

MHS taught Allison L. Toth to "take advantage of every opportunity and don't quit."

The best lesson Andra L. Teten learned while at MHS was "don't leave your lights on- your battery will die and you can't go home."

Aubrey D. Fiegl realized at MHS "that no one is perfect".

Dreaming of June

As the year wore on, seniors became more and more restless. After four years of Manchester, students were ready to move on to the real world. Teachers piled on the homework, and students had to stay up to all hours of the night to complete it. Not only was there homework but also the pressure of sending in college applications. For many it was too much. By the time seniors got to class, the magical powers of the overhead and the lullabies of their teachers put them to sleep. But what were these seniors dreaming of? The first day of the rest of their lives. They dreamed of Friday the 13th when they would walk across the Coliseum stage in front of friends and family and receive their diplomas. They wondered what path they would take, for that path would be the key to their future.

Juniors

With a style of their own, they're definitely Not from Concentrate

Ah, to be a junior. What does it all mean? That you are almost to the end of your journey, or maybe that you are now considered an upperclassman? For many juniors, this year was a time of great academic concentration and even a little worrying. With the new seven period schedule things were different, and sometimes change was hard. The juniors, however, took the changes in stride and, along the way, created memories that lasted a lifetime. Through their individuality, the juniors not only celebrated their school spirit, but also participated in their own special junior events. Such things as the tradititonal ring ceremony, Homecoming, spirit week, and the long awaited chance to attend the prom, distinguished

~ Junior Class Officers ~

The junior class, led by President Chanelle L. Jefferson, Vice President Tammi S. Barber, Secretary Sarah E. Leyshon, and Treasurer Hannah J. Bruce, participated in many beneficial functions this year. With the starting of the year, the junior class council members sold Value Checks to raise money for the class. In December the council sponsored three children for the Christmas season. And with the conclusion of the year, the junior class celebrated their arrival as "upperclassmen" through the long anticipated prom.

~ The Turning Tradition ~

It was the time of year that every junior lived for: getting their class ring. A significant sign possessed by all "upperclassmen." On September 24th, 1996 in the auditorium juniors bunched together for the long-awaited award of their academic careers. The school ring, according to Herff Jones, is "a unique symbol of pride, class unity, and school recognition." The ring ceremony is just another example of how the junior class of '98 is "not from concentrate."

Ashley S. Weeks admires Kristin N. Ford's new class ring after th annual ceremony.

Sophomores

After 1 year, they are finally Peeling Away the Layers

Peeling away the layers of the sophomore class this year reveals a familiar core. The sophomore class is in full effect again this year, and how could they not be with the same great leaders. That's right, the same four were elected again this year, making the sophomores a slice above the rest. President Laura Wood, Vice President Jamar Hicks, Secretary Sarah Tuck, and Treasurer Jennifer Naquin have really put their spirit, effort and pride into the sophomore class this year. All of their hard work really paid off when the sophomores won first place in the Homecoming Door and Float contest this year and second place in the Dance Decoration contest. With the help of their fearless leader Mrs. Wyatt, they contributed food and clothes to needy families this holiday season. As one can see the diverse layers of the sophomore class make a premium contribution to The Big Orange.

The New Seven-Period Block Schedule

As the Sophomores made the jump from 9th grade to 10th grade, the new seven period block schedule was put into effect. What do they think about this change?

Question: What do you think of the seven-period schedule?

"It's fine. It's better so you can get into more discussion during class."

-Kristin A. Eide

"I think it's a good idea in theory, but sitting in a classroom for 90 minutes is just too much."

-Kenny R. Tarrant

"It's better because you have more time to learn and 2 days to do your homework."

-Aubrey L. Fox

"I don't like it. There is too much time for the teachers to assign homework. It is also hard to stay focused in some classes."

-Mark A. Grabill

The Future

Here in high school, our idea of preplanning and looking into the future is deciding what to have for lunch. Now, it's time to plan ahead a little more, looking into the future (past lunch time.) What does the future hold? What is going to happen after graduation?

Question: What do you plan to do with your life after graduation?

"Go to college, get a job, get married, be happy, and keep my youthful spirit. (oh yeah, and party till I die.)"

- Amber N. Dennick

"Hopefully become famous."

- James A. Vaughan

"Go to college to become a lawyer or a journalist, get married, and start a family."

- Richard T. Bolton

"Go to college in Wisconsin and then I want to either be a daycare teacher or a U.S. History Teacher."

- Kathleen N. Halpus

"After high school I want to go to college and then after college maybe medical school or something."

Tardies

This year the time between classes was increased. Does this mean that our tardy policy is outdated? Is it still effective? We'll let the sophomores decide.

Question: Is the tardy policy fair?

"Yes. With seven minutes between each class, I'd say so."

-Jeff A. Cox

"I don't think it's fair because some people have classes spread across the school and now we have seven minutes, but there are so many more hall traffic jams that it takes more time for the whole trip."

-Mary N. Kasdaglis

Overall, 90% of surveyed sophomores agreed that the tardy policy is fair.

The New Days of Etiquette

Social expectations have changed from the days of "Leave it to Beaver." These catastrophic differences encourage the questioning youth to reach for Webster's to define this dynamic concept. Etiquette, according to Webester is, "the forms required for good breeding or prescribed by authority to be official in life." This dictionary's copyright is that of 1994, but the meaning behind the words ring of an old fashioned era to teenagers.

Words like "sir" or "ma'am" have been replaced with "yeah." Why has our youth forgotten their proper manners? Is it because their parents have not taught them? Or mabye it's because they ignore the important lessons that are presented.

When Lisa Thong was asked what etiquette is, she simply said, "It's manners, of course." Then she was asked more questions like, "When you went on your last date, did he open the car door for you, and did you introduce him to your parents?" Her reply was, "No, he never opened my door, and he did not meet my parents."

When Shaun Dusara was asked how he defined etiquette, he said, "It is just how well you present yourself, I always open the car door for my dates and I give them the most respect."

Etiquette is sometimes forgotten, but the way that someone acts reflects their personality. So remember, no matter where you are, someone will always be looking at your manners and the way you present yourself.

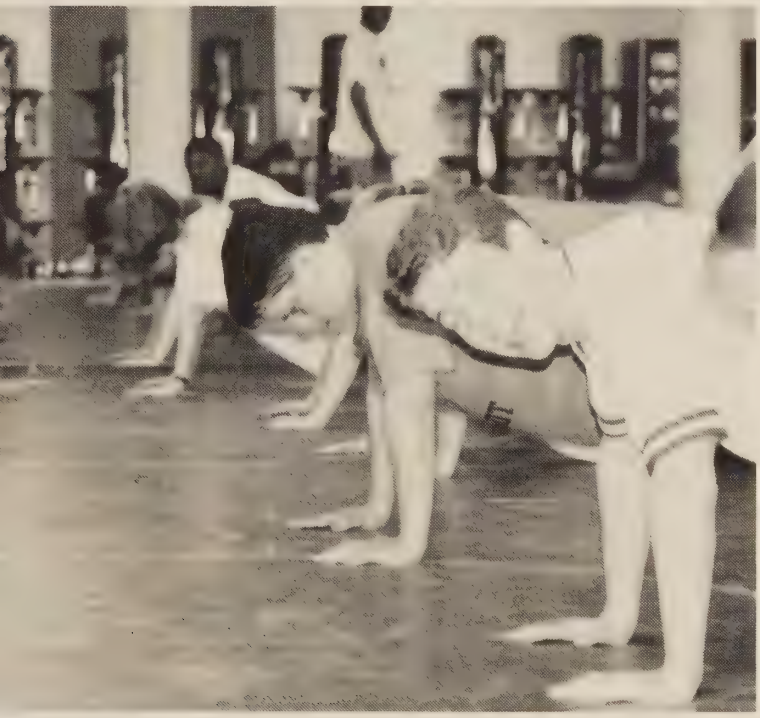
Freshmen

In their 1st year at MHS, they're Off to a Rolling Start

This year Manchester welcomes our ripe freshman class. The freshman class entered the groove for 1996-97 school year by picking their freshman class officers. William T. Poindexter was chosen as President, Kendall H. Richardson as Vice President, Jane C. Burchett as Secretary, and Courtney A. Webb as Treasurer. Some activities that the freshman participated in were the homecoming dance, where they won 3rd. place in the float competition. Freshman also helped out with the Angel Tree Project, the Battle of the Bands and a community service project. The selectively picked freshman were faced with many new activities such as homecoming pep rallies, exams and the new alternatives scheldule. "It's hard being a freshman because you have to adjust quickly to all the new changes put in front of you," said Vice President Kendall Richardson. Although the freshman class experienced a year full of new experiences and challenges, they are rolling full speed ahead.



Andrew S. Davis looks on while Chris A. Winston focuses intently on practice.

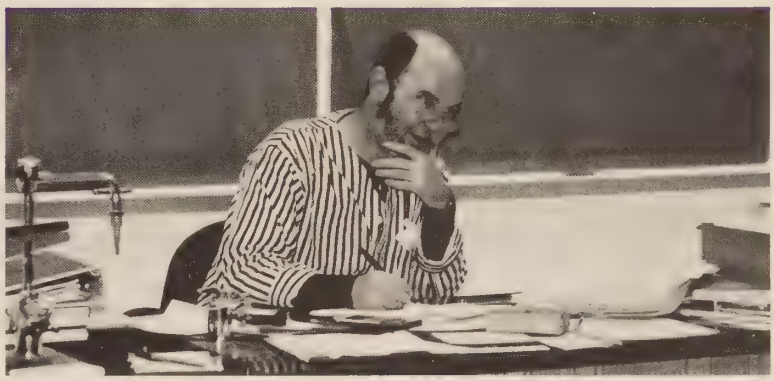
Faculty

They're strange, they're great, they're Well-Rounded

The faculty at MHS is an extraordinary group of people. They have contributed their knowledge, their time, and their experiences to our students. By opening doors for students with their hearts and minds, they help students realize who they are and what they can accomplish in their lives.

The faculty here at MHS has as much spirit as the students, if not more. They displayed their Lancer Spirit during spirit week, the holidays, and everyday life. Have you ever seen Mrs. Stuhlmiller in action? How about Miss Adkisson? They both display the Lancer spirit to the very best of their abilities. There are many other great teachers at Manchester. "With such spirited students , the teachers need to keep up with them somehow," says Miss Adkisson, one of the many Spanish teachers.

Throughout their teaching years, they have left a long legacy of strength, courage, and knowledge to students and everyone else who has ever had the privilege of knowing them in their well-rounded lives.



With an added touch that is all his own, Mr. Henry "dresses down" in celebration of Halloween.

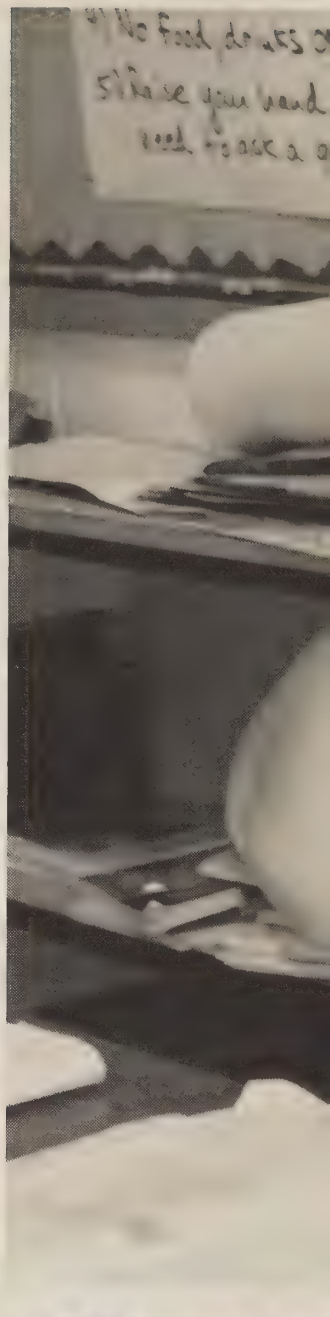
Looking over a student's shoulder, Mrs. Reibsamen corrects English homework. (Just as some students consider grading tedious, so do most teachers!)

Considered one of Manchester's more "inventive" teachers, Mrs. Halbert gets creative with stage makeup. Grotesque, isn't it?

"Being recognized by my friends and fellow teachers as being Teacher of the Year is my most memorable moment as a teacher."

-Gail Russell

After being selected for Teacher of the Year, Mrs. Russell stated that it was her "most memorable moment as a teacher."



Even as a child and a teenager, Mrs. Russell thought she might want to teach someday.

Behind the school store cash register, Mrs. Russell asks for "$5.25, please." Mrs. Russell is the school store advisor.

Recognized as Teacher of the Year, Ms. Gail Russell truly is . . .

Manchester's Shining STAR

To Gail Russell teaching is not just a job, "It's a passion!" It is this passion that has earned her the respect of fellow teachers, who in turn honored her with the well-deserved title of "Teacher of the Year."

Ms. Russell not only teaches reading classes at Manchester High School, but she also is the school store advisor, sponsor of the Debate and Forensics Team, a member of the Student Assistance Team and director of the ninth grade study skills program. In addition to these responsibilities, Mrs. Russell teaches homebound students as needed, as well as adult basic education classes two nights a week . Along with Mrs. Burnett, Ms. Russell initiated the student mentor program known as STARS. Some say she should be called "Wonder Woman," but Russell is more than honored to just be called "Teacher of the Year."

"Being recognized by my friends and fellow teachers as being the Teacher of the Year is my most memorable moment as a teacher," Russell said sincerely. "I have continually tried to reach students. The hardest thing about teaching, to me, is seeing students that don't want to be helped and also seeing students that I can't help."

Although teaching can sometimes seem like a thankless job, Mrs. Russell enjoys the little things in her days. "What I enjoy most about teaching is my interaction with the kids." This is displayed through her efforts to help students by creating the STARS program, a program designed to link two students together in the hopes of encouraging personal growth and academic achievement for both. The program was a success last year, but due to the new block scheduling this year, the program has unfortunately been cut. Russell says she is dedicated to finding a way to restart the program. It is this dedication and genuine care for students that has made her this year's Teacher of the Year. Reflecting on her 34 years of teaching, Russell states, "There is nothing else I would rather do!"

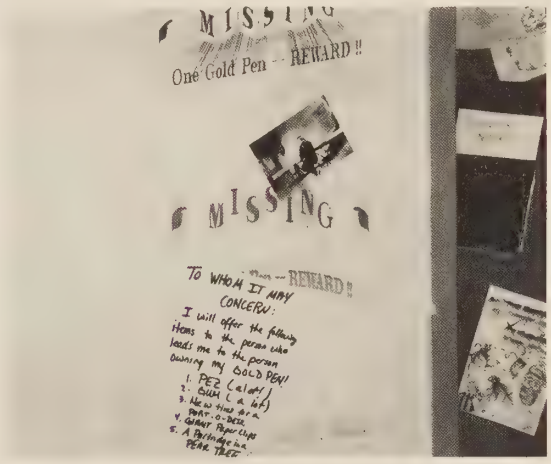
The Gold Pen

Scandal Rocks the Workroom...

Christmas time at Manchester brought an interesting mystery to the attention of both students and teachers. Strange banners appeared around the door of a very frantic Jeff Cole's French room. "Missing: One Gold Pen. Reward Offered." Poor Mr. Cole! Someone had stolen one of his most treasured possessions. The yearbook staff decided to look for some clues.



One Gold Pen -- REWARD !!

To WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
I will offer the following items to the person who leads me to the person owning my GOLD PEN!

We found a very promising lead with Laura Byrd. "We didn't steal," claimed Ms. Byrd, "We abducted." Could this statement be a dead giveaway to the identity of the thief? We wanted more information, so we probed deeper into the plot. Ms. Byrd, after pleading the fifth, claimed that "The pen just appeared on my desk one morning with a ransom note for me to deliver it to Jeff. I have no idea where it came from." Meanwhile, Mr. Cole continued to offer a plea to all who would listen. Would the mystery of the missing pen be solved?

Later developments answered this question. "Out of the goodness of Ms. Byrd's heart," the pen was returned to the French room and a relieved Mr. Cole. "I feel that a man and his pen should not be parted at Christmas time," conceded Ms. Byrd, "even if he did call me a snob!" Snob? Could this whole mystery be a cover for underlying hostilities in the workroom? Manchester may never know.

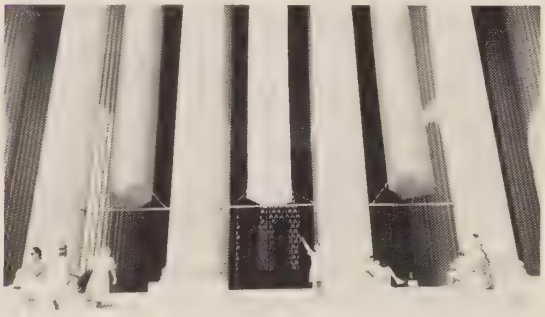
Mrs. Vipper*man*?

The Story Behind MHS's Favorite Feminist . . .

Contrary to popular belief, there is more to Mrs. Carla Vipperman than her feminist reputation. True, her primary hobby is support of the feminist movement. On the 75th anniversary of the 19th amendment, she traveled to Washington, D.C. and viewed a special exhibit at the National Archives. She is very proud of the fact that she supports feminist causes and she boycotts those that are anti-woman. When a student commented to Mrs. Vipperman that "a woman's place is in the home," Mrs. Vipperman laughed and told the student, "you obviously don't know me!" But believe it or not, our favorite feminist does have many interests outside of women's rights.



Mrs. Vipperman enjoys historic travel, especially when she has the opportunity to learn about World War II or tour battleships. All periods of U.S. history fascinate her, and she visits many old homes and battlefields. Realizing the historical importance of Virginia, Mrs. Vipperman, by living here, is afforded the unique opportunity to experience history on location. Members of the history club, which Mrs. Vipperman sponsors, testify to the fact that their fearless leader has seen all!

In addition to her love of history, Mrs. Vipperman loves her cats with a passion. Even going so far as to wear her cat's portrait pinned to her shirt, Mrs. Vipperman will admit that her cats are just like her own children.

When it comes to women, whether you love them or hate them, Mrs. Vipperman is a case to go down in "herstory."

Oxford Bound

After being recognized for excellence in teaching, Mrs. Crane embarks on a journey to embellish her knowledge of British Literature . . .

Department Chairperson Donna Crane will participate in a study program this summer after receiving $7000 from the Community Foundation and REB Awards for Teaching Excellence Foundation. She will spend four weeks in England studying the nineteenth-century novels of Thomas Hardy, Emily Bronte, and Jane Austen.

Mrs. Crane was chosen out of 175 applicants and is one of sixteen who will participate in this program.

After spending three weeks at Worchester College in England, a branch of Oxford College, Mrs. Crane will spend one week traveling in England to some of the places where these authors lived and wrote. She hopes to "bring back to her students knowledge which she has learned from this experience."

Mrs. Crane taught at MHS for six years until she transferred to Monacan to be an assisstant principal. She has also taught at the University of Richmond and Thomas Dale High School. She has taught at Manchester High School for the past two years.

Although Mrs. Crane leads almost 26 English teachers as English Department Head, all refused to comment on this trip. Thinking that this was perhaps a touch of jealousy, we instead asked Mr. Neudeck, a member of the Math Department, about his opinion. Mr. Neudeck admits, "although I am not a fan of Emily Bronte or Jane Austen, I am most definitely a fan of Mrs. Crane."

Janitorial Staff

Year after year, Manchester's Janitorial Staff has kept our school clean and sparkling. Although this fearless and praiseworthy team is a little camera-shy, Manchester's janitors finally gave in to having their pictures taken. Thanks go out to MHS's janitors for their hard work, their years of dedication, and their behind-the-scenes contributions. After all, what would this school be without them?

MHS's leading man when it comes to spills, messes, and catastrophes, John Patron demonstrates his administrative duties by sitting at his desk.

After all the pizzas have been made and all the french fries cooked, cafeteria workers hurry to pour cheese and to do other last minute tasks.

One of the less enjoyable jobs of the cafeteria workers is to monitor the lunch line (linebreakers, beware!).

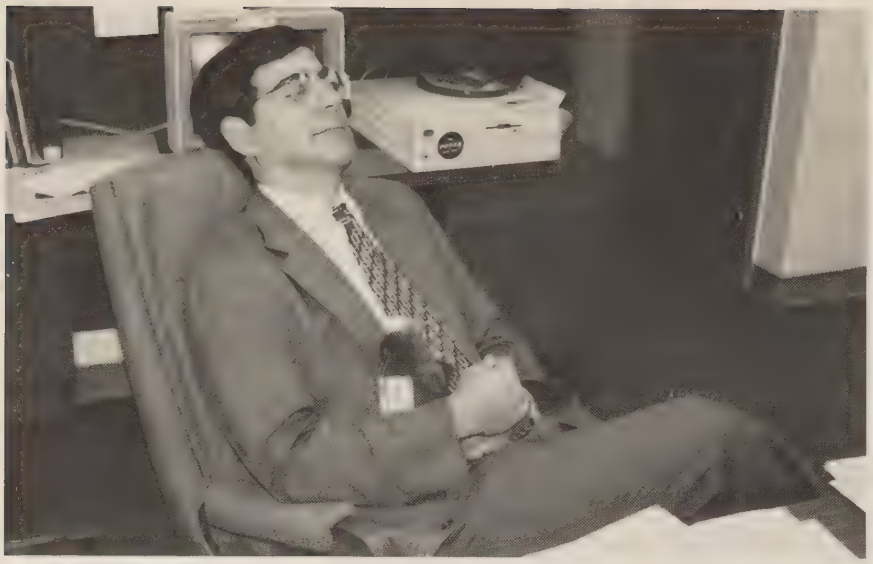
Cafeteria Staff

After hundreds of pepperoni pizzas, chicken filets, french fries, and taco salads, Manchester's kitchen staff is finally being recognized. This team of women, the friendliest in the entire school, keeps the kitchen clean, the food coming, and the students fed. After a full year of lunch trays, soda fountains, and hairnets, these ladies have earned a hearty and well-deserved thanks. Truly, this year's cafeteria staff is one in a million.

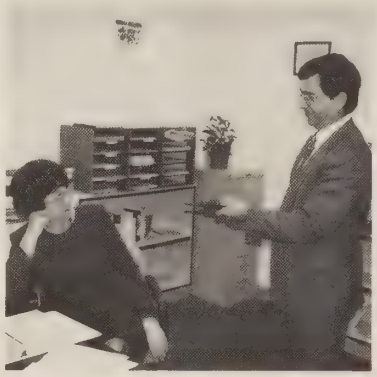
A Day in the Life of . . .
King Koste

Students often wonder what it would be like to b principal of a school as large as Manchester. Pe Koste, administrator extraordinaire, could certain tell them. Everyday Mr. Koste comes to school with th sole purpose of helping the kids at Manchester becon better people. He comes to school events, rooting for h favorite team. He listens to students with the talents of bo a guidance counselor and an administrator. In addition his public duties, Mr. Koste runs the school both financial and administratively. What a lot to do! Still, some studen speculate about what goes on behind closed doors in th office. Here's a somewhat satirical look at our favorite ma in a suit and his daily routine...

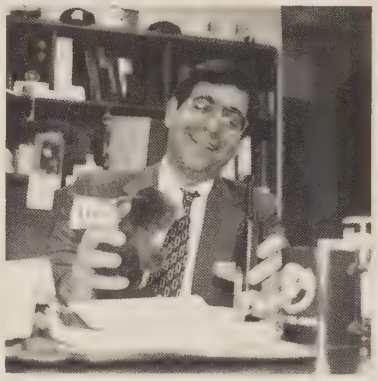


7:25 Bell? What bell? I didn't hear that bell. I think I was still sleeping . . .

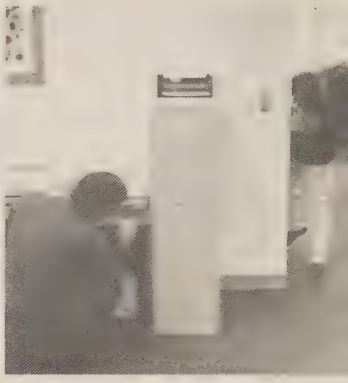
7:35 Wake up to the ringing of the phone. Attempt to look busy and important. Contemplate doing paperwork.



8:50 Give Mrs. Wilson a lecture. Remind her that I have authority over her and that I could exercise it at any time.



10:30 Playtime! Mr. Walkie Talkie meets the attack of the killer Elmo. Desktown evacuates. Good practice for Bomb Threats.



12:20 Daily Exercise. Hide-an seek with Mrs. Tuck. Consu secretary for new and improved hi ing spots.

1:00 Exert supremacy over entire school. I am the Big Orange King! I can do anything! (Jim Morrison couldn't have said it better himself.)

LANCER FOOTBALL

Turn on the Juice

After an 0-3 start to the Lancer's 1996 Varsity football season, Manchester won 6 of their last 7 games and went on to capture a share of the Dominion District title. The overall varsity record was 6-4, placing first in the district. Although the Lancers were denied a chance at the Division 6 playoff berth, the season and the important victories over Bird and James River were very exciting events for the Lancers because they led to the team's first District title since 1978. The varsity team was led by Todd Holt, Britton Marable, and Asbury Williams. The JV team was also successful this season finishing with an overall record of 7-3. The team was held together by the trusting relationships between the boys; the team's offensive and defensive lines were incredible this season, which also increased their strength. Both the varsity and JV teams ended their season with success and hope for next year.

LANCER FIELD HOCKEY

Sunkist Chicks with Sticks

The ManchesterVarsity Field Hockey team ended their season with a record of 3-5. The team started with twenty skilled and dedicated players, but lost three to injuries. The team traveled to TABB High School for a tournament where they played hard and finished with a 1-2 record. Five of the players were chosen for All District; they were Jody Fahey, Kim Thompson, and honorable mentions were given to Nikki Potter, Laura Bardon, and Joy Madison. This led to an understanding of each other which later became an important factor in winning games. This was a year for teaching fundamentals for the JV team, who finished the season with a record of 0-8-1. The team was led by Jessica Wells, Kristin Coronado, and captain Lauren Sanderson. The key to both of the teams' success was the friendship that existed between the whole team.

The golf team finished the season with a record of 9-6-1. Along with the record, David Seamster, and Jeff Greenfield, led the Lancers to a fourth place slot in the district. Much of the team's success can be credited to how well the players worked together and their determination. The team was led by Steven Jenkins, who was a superior member of the team and ninth in the state. Steven Jenkins also was awarded the MVP for the 1996 season. The Lancers look to be coming back strong next year because of their experienced players and team spirit.

The MHS golf team eagerly looks on as they increase their win against the other team.

The 1996 Manchester Girls' Tennis team had a great season this year with many new players and distinct talents. The team's record was 2-11, and they placed sixth in the district. Katie Nichols and Amy Adams were important players because they led the team to its first win against Huguenot. Clover Hill was Manchester's toughest competitor this season, and the girls played well but lost two hard matches. The teammate awards were given to Melissa Kolanko and Geisa Silva because they both played with determination and always gave positive contributions to the team.

The 1997 Manchester Boys' Tennis team finished the season with a record of 1-10, placing sixth in the district. The team was lead by Justin Schrinel, who was Teammate of the Year, and sophomore David Thong, who was given the Sportsmanship award. At the end of the season, some of the players including senior Brian Byrd were chosen to go to the district tournament where they represented Manchester with pride. This year's team was very willing to learn strategies and techniques to improve their game because there were so many young members on the team. Coach Katsarelis expects the team to return in future years stronger and ready to grow together as a team.

Justin R. Schrinel shows his enthusiasm and hits a speedy forehand towards his opponent.

" We had a lot of tough times, but we managed to pull it together when it really mattered."

-Katy Benner

Neisha S. Cameron shows her great offensive skills as she keeps the ball away from the opponent.

LANCER GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Dunking the Oranges

The 1996-1997 varsity girls' basketball team had many talented players this season, and they finished the year with a record of 11-9. The Lancers were led in scoring by Neisha Cameron who was also at the top of the stat charts in steals and assist columns. The varsity team ended up with a record of 7-7 in the districts. The team finished their season in the first round of the district tournament after they lost to their district rival, Huguenot. The girls' JV basketball team started this year off with new faces along with the old ones. The team was close to winning in almost every game, but their overall record of 8-8 shows that they struggled through the season. Even with their toughest competitor, James River, the girls only lost by a few points. The team finished the district tournament with a record of 4-8. Both the varsity and the junior varsity teams led a successful season, and they plan to come back stronger next season with fresh players and new talents.

Manchester Cheerleaders definitely had a successful season with their victory at the Dominion District along with other wins throughout the season. Seniors Lynn Hollon, Laura Lindsey, Mary Kathryn Reed, and Lori Hoskins led the Lancers during the season by encouraging the other cheerleaders and providing knowledge of the basics of cheering to the other members of the squad. After finishing first in the Dominion District, the Lancers took second place in the regional tournament, which enabled them to enter the 1997 State Cheerleading Competition. The Lancers beat L.C. Bird in the districts in order to win first place, but they lost to Thomas Dale in the state competition. The 1997 Lancer Dancer squad led an exciting year as they participated in numerous competitions along with performing at major sports events. The squad began dancing together last April after try-outs. Ever since then, the focus of the dancers has been on their goal to compete in the Universal Dance Association's National Championship in Disney World. The girls climbed a ladder in order to reach their ultimate goal of competing in Disney World, and this included attending camp during the summer. They received high awards while at summer camp, including a trophy for their spirit and a second place award for their home routine. These awards qualified the Lancer Dancers for a trip to the Nationals, which were held in Orlando, Florida. After all the competitions were over, the Lancer Dancers returned as proud individuals with undaunted spirit.

The team placed first in the Monacan Holiday Invitational and second in the Amelia County Step Explosion by overcoming their toughest competitor, Monacan High. The MVP was Latasha Jackson while Leah Jackson was Most Improved and Dhamana Thompson, the manager, was chosen as Most Dedicated. The members of the squad worked well together with the help of their beloved sponsor, Mrs. Brown. The girls expressed that the lowest point of the season was when Mrs. Brown told them that she would not be returning next season; Mrs. Brown proved to be an inspiration and model leader for the team, and they will have to work hard to return as strong and as spirited next year.

David Clayton also deserves recognition for advancing to the state tournament despite the fact that this was his first time as a debater. In addition, Michael Batteau competed on a national level in Lincoln-Douglas Debate and was recognised as MHS' Most Outstanding Debater. However, the memories the debate team made were just as special as their awards. Mary Misiano's favorite memory "came about at each tournament. Each new experience brought about a new nickname for each of our competitors. I remember some of them were 'Hard Girl', the 'Obnoxious Boy' and 'Old Yeller'." The debate team finished the season successfully, hoping to come back strong again next year.

Manchester High School had the privilege of hosting a group of foreign exchange students from Germany for four weeks. Through this experience, MHS students learned how the German school differed from our own, primarily in that they go to grade 13 and attend school for a shorter amount of time. Timon Quante said, "the schedules at Manchester are much different because all the days start the same with first period but then [we have] an hour and a half of other classes." The climate was a change for these students too; at their home it was snowy and cold. They all said that the weather temperatures here are extreme, one day warm and sunny and the next windy and cool. Their reasons for coming to America were to learn about the American life-style and improve their English vocabulary. After an educating four weeks in America, they will take home an experience of a lifetime. The exchange students' fondest memories were seeing Washington, D. C., and the cherry blossoms in spring time. They were also overwhelmed by the sights of Richmond, our nation's capitol, and New York City, memories that will resonate in their minds forever.

Community Service

A Veteran Program Continues to Go Strong

In its fourth year at Manchester, the community service program is in its prime with a record number of students. At the beginning of the year, students take several weeks of classes that teach them about the community around them. These classes are taught by Mrs. Thorpe, Mr. McCoull, and Miss Dabney, the sponsors of the program. Now if you think this is a slack class, you are sadly mistaken. Every student is required to have approximately 35 hours of community service per 9 weeks. Their service ranges anywhere from elementary schools to hospitals. The blood drive, canned food drive, and stuffed animal drive are also special projects in which community service students participate. Manchester's program has even been commended by members of the General Assembly for sponsoring one of Virginina's largest blood drives. This class gives students an opportunity to contribute their personality to our society and learn habits of service which they hopefully will continue for the rest of their lives.

JROTC

A New Program Gives Manchester a Try

Left, left, left, right, left .... You may have heard this chant and others if you've seen the JROTC cadets marching in the halls after school. The Junior Reserve Officers Training Course is a new class this year at Manchester, and it has been received well within the school. This program, led by Sergeant Fitzgerald, provides an outlet for young men and women to learn work ethic and discipline. Throughout the year these students develop better habits as American citizens. The cadets have stayed busy this year by competing in various competitions including the National Drill Classic in Washington D.C. and the Martin Luther King Jr. Drill Classic at the Arthur Ashe Center. The cadets have also performed at Manchester's pep rallies. The JROTC program has proved to be a valuable learning experience for all its many cadets at Manchester.

SENIOR LIFE

Orange You Glad . . . ?

The Senior Experience

Senior year is a time of reflection; from freshman year until June 13, everyone does a lot of learning and growing as individuals. From our very first homecoming to our senior prom, we have made a lot of memories that will last a lifetime. Our senior year has especially presented many opportunities for seniors to get involved and show their spirit. The senior powderpuff team put their excitement to good use and defeated the junior team. Later that week the seniors rallied their voices and spirit together to win the Homecoming spirit competition. Seniors also enjoyed taking over teacher positions on Senior Leadership Day. And, in "One Enchanted Evening," seniors enjoyed their final Manchester Prom, as well as the Monday after when many students were forced to stay home because of that "other illness." The significance of graduation hit hardest after cap and gown distribution when most seniors, while standing in front of the mirror trying on their caps and gowns, realized they were about to take the final step from high school into adulthood. And, then June 13th came and went in a blur--in one moment, the brief high school experience had ended.

Angela M. Pierce proudly displays her cake for the Contemporary Living bake-off.

What are you most looking forward to after graduation?

Pick of the Crop

Senior Superlatives

After spending four years of high school with their fellow classmates, the senior class has finally picked out the best from among their peers. Many countless hours were spent passing out ballots, tallying the votes, and deciding on the winners. On May 30 at the Senior Assembly, the chosen few were announced after keeping the results secret for so many weeks. It was an honor for the winners to be named "Most Likely to Succeed" . . . "Most Talented" . . . "Best Looking" . . . "Teacher's Pet"? But what better judges of character than fellow classmates? Overall, Manchester has a premium selection of seniors, truly making the students in this school "the pick of the crop". Congratulations is offered to the following 1997 senior superlative winners . . .

The Senior Assembly

It was virtually impossible to sum up the achievements of the class of 1997 in one assembly, but the faculty did their best. The morning began with the preassembly in which Mrs. Shumate and Miss Adkisson sang their comical duo to award the senior superlatives, and Mr. Koste honored Distinguished Lancers with hand-drawn caricatures. After the Senior Breakfast, seniors lined the halls for the processional into the auditorium. Pride shone on the students' faces as the men walked in with their heads held high and the ladies with tears in eyes and silk roses in hand. Seniors and guests patiently honored those receiving scholarships and special recognitions. Andra L. Teten was named as Outstanding Graduate, and members of Capital Swing closed the ceremony with their version of "That Lonesome Road." Best wishes to the Class of 1997!

Seniors listen attentively to Mr. Koste as he begins the ceremony to honor their fellow classmates.

Erin D. Sarkees gives a sentimental farewell to a senior friend.

Striking a pose, this senior group of friends says goodbye to high school with a little pomp and circumstance.

The Senior Breakfast

As an honor to the graduating seniors, the Junior Marshalls presented the Class of 1997 with a farewell breakfast. A full array of donuts, bagels, milk, and juice was laid before the seniors, who voraciously devoured every morsel. In addition, this time was spent taking pictures, signing Senior Memory Books, and discussing future plans. As seniors ate amidst friends and acquaintances, a spirit of camaraderie prevailed even as students fought for the last donuts. This breakfast provided a time for reflection, but also afforded seniors the opportunity to look toward their future. Even though the food was gone quickly, the memories of the Senior Breakfast and Assembly will last a lifetime.

Together at their final school dance, seniors enjoy the fun and excitement of the party atmosphere.

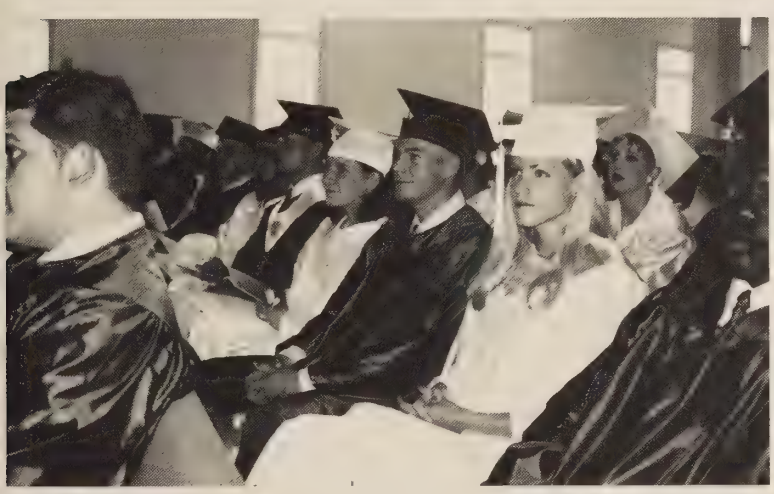
Megan A. Hall fondly studies the class collage, containing pictures of memorable faces and events from the 1996-1997 school year.

The Senior Banquet

Can a school dance actually be fun? Seniors seemed to think this one was. According to Jamie L. Harper, "the Senior Banquet was better than Prom." Whether it was the decent music, the underclassmen-free atmosphere, or the air of finality, something about the evening made it a truly memorable experience. Seniors danced the night away, enjoyed the provided hors d'oeuvres, and even got "leid." All night long, various door prizes were awarded to lucky seniors, and later in the evening everyone had the pleasure of listening to the group "Oreo Cookie" sing a special farewell to Mrs. Shumate. Class officers read the senior history to a chorus of laughter and smiles; after this wonderful evening, they had yet another memory to add to their collection.

Baccalaureate

One of the most traditional events for the Seniors is the Baccalaureate service, held at Swift Creek Baptist Church this year. The event, organized by senior parents, opened with an inspiring allegory by Andra L. Teten. Next, Reverend Mucha delivered an opening invocation and some modernized remarks linking hope for the future with the trendy beanie babies. Following the Reverend's remarks, John C. Chappell, elected Baccalaureate Speaker, shared his poem and spoke to the class about vitality and enthusiasm. Finally, Mr. Koste gave a moving speech that demonstrated his emotions for the graduating class with such conviction and affection that he received a standing ovation from his grateful students. Tears were seen in eyes throughout the room when the Chamber Choir performed the "Prayer Without Words" and a touching farewell in which they wished all the best of life for their classmates. Reverend Pinder closed the ceremony with an inspirational benediction that sounded a note of finality for both parents and students. The realization began to take shape that the seniors would graduate, complete their high school career, and leave behind a group of lasting friends.



Seniors reflect upon the moving words of Mr. Koste.

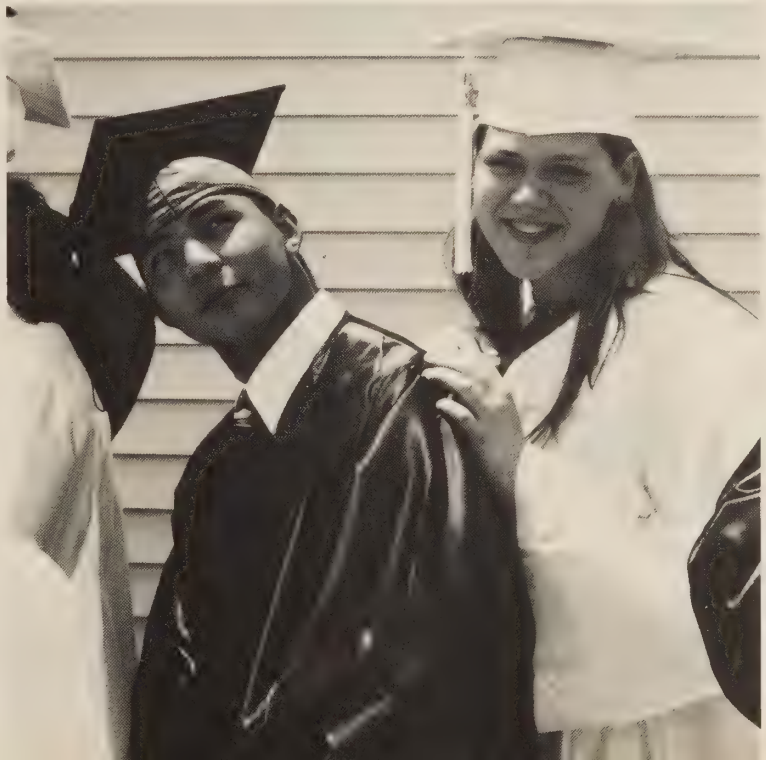
The Lines That Made Us Cry. . .

"I am here to tell you that the students seated before me comprise one of the three finest graduating classes with whom I've had the opportunity to be associated . . . .

I will remember the warm genuine smiles that you brought with you to school each day . . . .

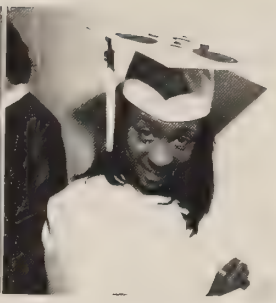
What is necessary is to improve yourself one act at a time, one day at a time, and one person at a time."

Mr. Peter Koste
in his emotional Baccalaureate speech to the Class of 1997



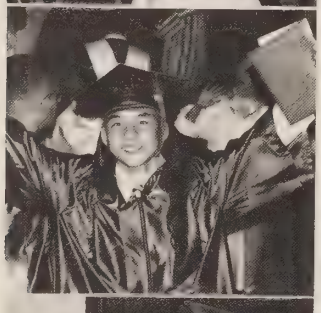
John C. Chappell shares his inspirational message with his fellow classmates, urging them to greet life with enthusiasm.

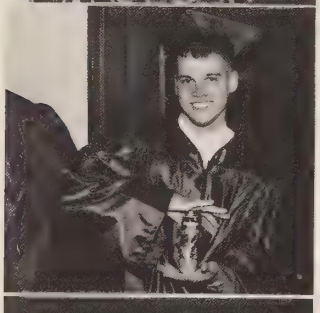
Margaret R. Kreibel and Joseph L. Takai demonstrate the "perfect patience" of an ideal senior.

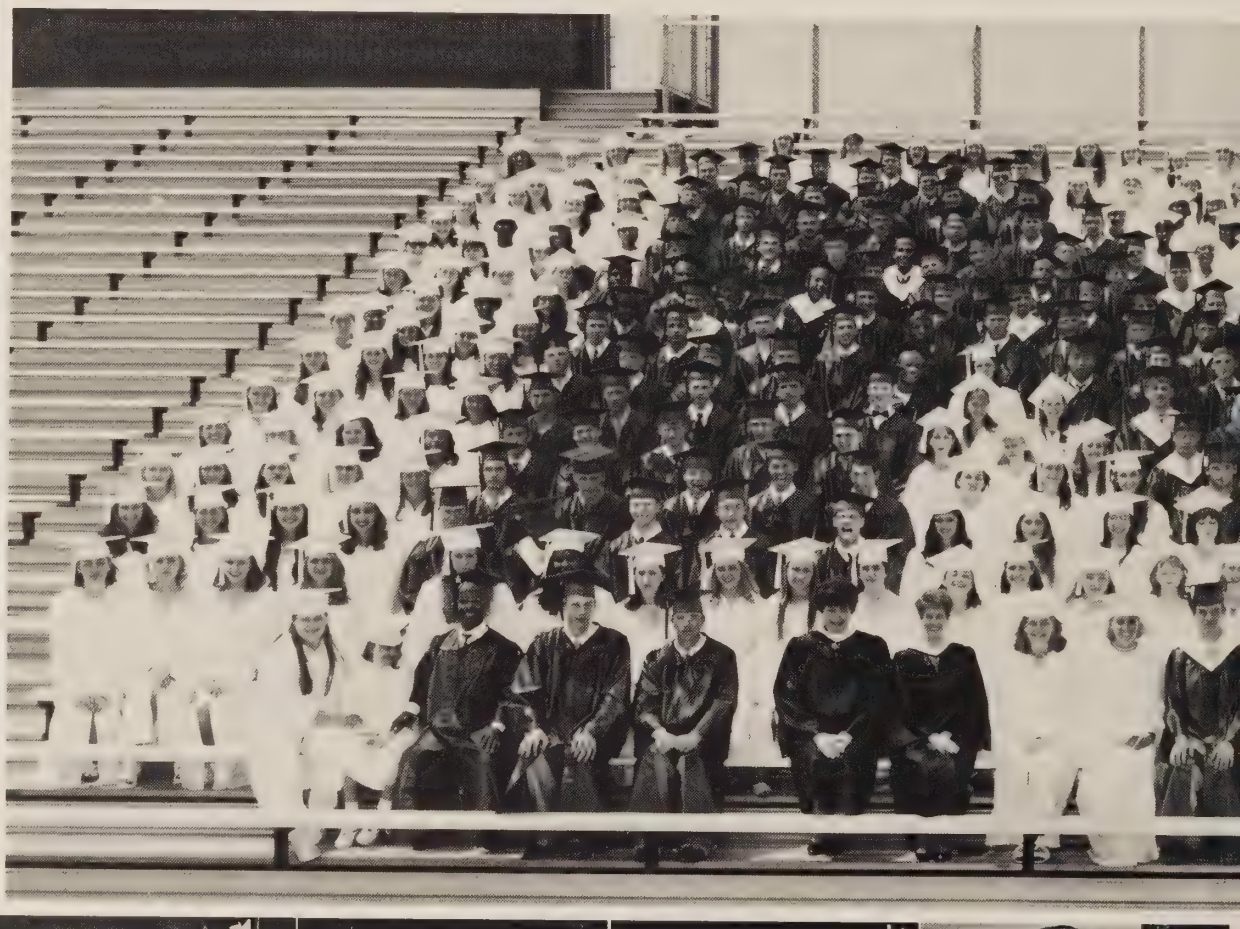


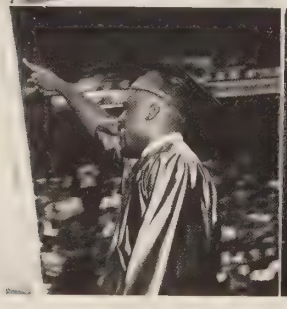
Graduation

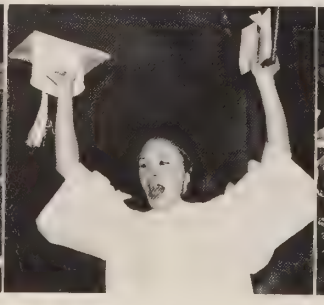
Perhaps the most momentous experience in high school is Graduation. On this emotional day students who have spent a year standing on the threshold between youth and adulthood cross over into a world of new experiences while family and friends assemble to mark the cherished passing. This year, a record crowd said their final good-byes to the class of 1997. What they witnessed was, in a word, incredible. The respect and honor showered on these students by all who spoke of them gave a moving testimonial to the quality of the graduating seniors. Admiration appeared on the proud faces of the parents during the processional where the first of many tears began to fall as the seniors entered, moving as a group for the last time. One by one, each of the speakers echoed the praise of this outstanding class. The students were warmly welcomed by Vice President Megan Hall and addressed by President Andra Teten and Valedictorian Tim Mucha, their peers and class leaders. The ensuing speeches of Peter Koste, Dr. William Bosher, and Kirk Cox served not only to reinforce the praise of the senior class but also to inspire its members to continue to improve the quality of their lives and to touch the lives of others. When the last senior had crossed the stage and the class had been formally dismissed, Manchester said a sad farewell to a memorable class.

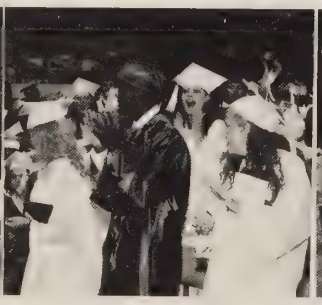


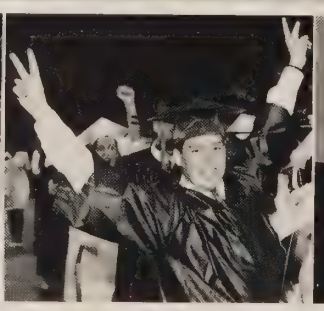


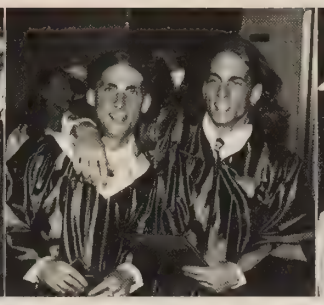




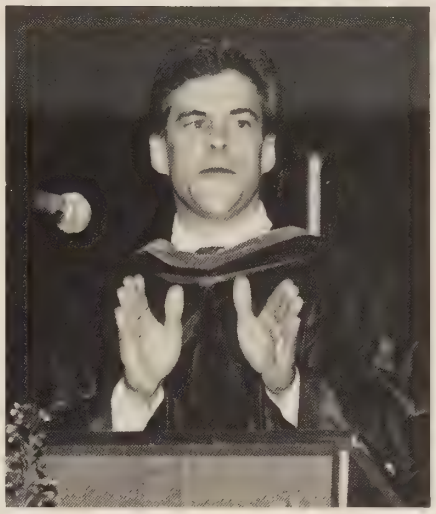




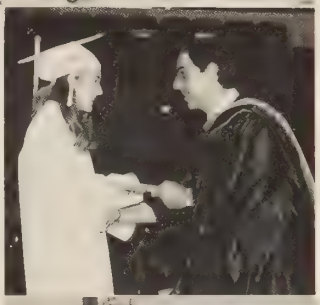


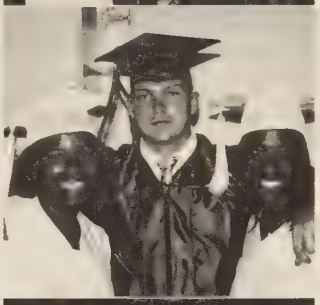


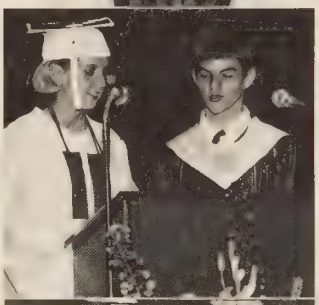
Now as we say goodbye,
I'm so afraid to cry,
tears falling from my eyes,
you know I love you;
maybe someday, maybe some way, we'll meet again.
I wish we could find a way,
to make this last one more day,
there's so much left to say,
I'll always love you;
maybe someday, maybe some way, we'll meet again.

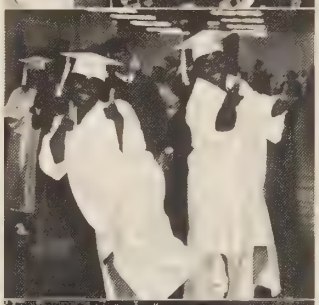


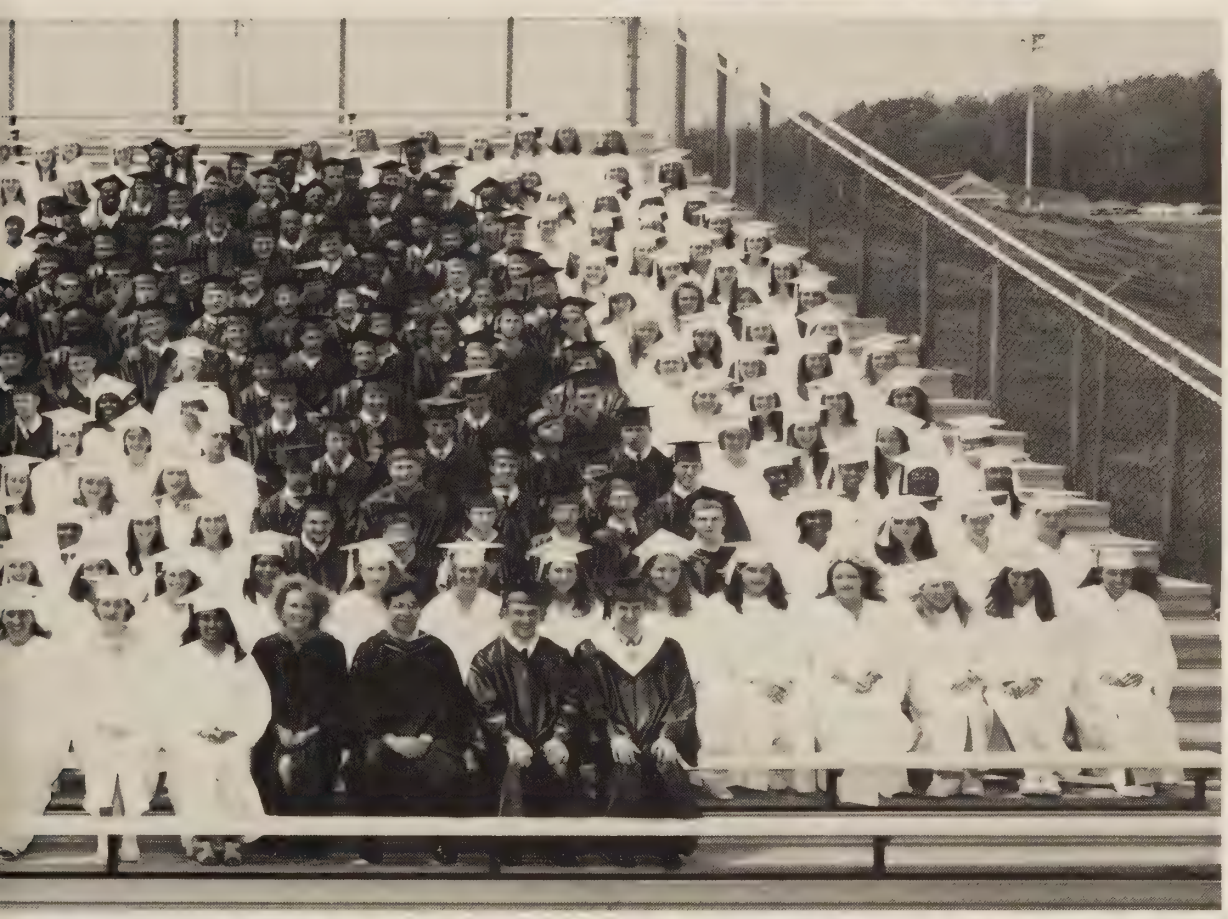
Graduation speaker Kirk Cox urges the Class of 1997 to return to traditional values with his final address. In Delegate Cox's words: "How nice."

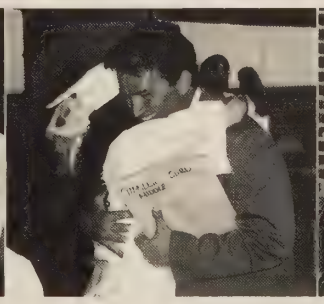












A Rolling Stop

The last few days of school are always filled with bittersweet emotions. For some, they are only the prelude to a much-needed break from the strain of academics. For others, these days are the last chances to say goodbye to teachers, friends, and four years' worth of memories. For all of us, Manchester will always represent an important part of our lives. After all, you can leave your years of high school, but they will never leave you. This year, Manchester has seen as many changes as its students. The addition of new administrators colored the Big Orange with enthusiasm and fresh ideas. Sadly, Manchester also said a fond farewell to Mr. Ellick and Mrs. League during their last year with us. This chorus of hellos and goodbyes was heard everywhere as we welcomed the largest freshman class yet and gave a sad send-off to the outstanding senior class of 1997 whose final year was filled with success in all areas. Manchester has grown in both size and strength, and the Lancers rose to triumph with incredible seasons for the baseball, soccer, football, track, and softball teams as well as all of the other sports. However, none of these successes can compare with that incredible feeling of achievement that comes with finishing another year of high school! From the newly broken-in freshman to the most seasoned administrator, everyone who attended Manchester this year has left with new friends, new experiences, and truly "appeal-ing" memories. Whether looking towards another year of high school or onward to the outside world, Manchester wishes every student the best of luck for the future and beyond.

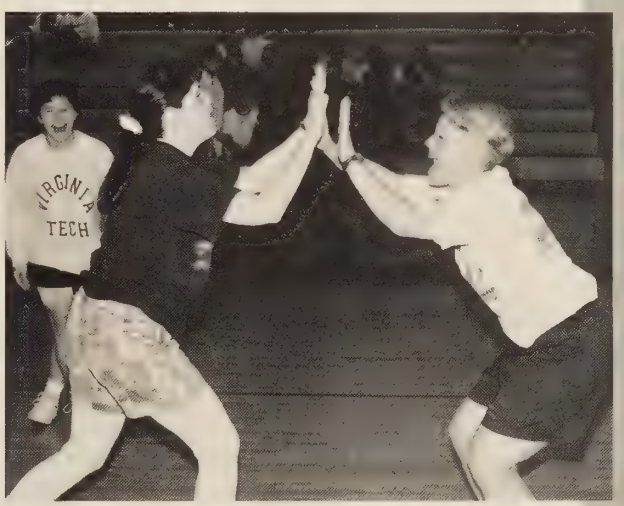
Well, no one said that making a yearbook was easy. With new editors and a new schedule to contend with, this year's Memoir staff, led bravely by Mrs. Farr, faced new trials and tribulations. However, the book was, as always, fun to do. After all, what could be more rewarding than capturing the memories of a year at Manchester High School? And what a lot of memories we had to capture! We wouldn't want anyone to forget the UPS men and their homecoming chicken dance. Or that wonderful feeling of relief when exams are finished. Or Mr. Cox's famous General Assembly project. Or prom night with that special someone. Or the sight of graduation caps soaring through the air. Or that final goodbye....

One tough decision: P. J. Hager chooses pictures for the index.

Lori D. Hoskins waves a fond good-bye to the 1996-1997 school year. Her fellow cheerleaders, mostly underclassmen, can look forward to another year of high school.



Victory! Mrs. Wallmeyer and Mrs. Dailey, members of the power-packed faculty team, enthusiastically celebrate a shot for the teachers at the student faculty basketball game.

Heave ho! Members of the freshmen class struggle in the tug-of-war at the Class-Club Olympics. This year, seniors came in first place.

An Honor to the Past and a Salute to the Future

The Spirit Committee of the School Council was extremely busy this year. To boost the already high school spirit at Manchester High School and to shine the limelight on the many teachers and students who deserve recognition for their various accomplishments, the committee decided to broaden its spotlight to a wide halogen floodlight by recognizing the Valedictorians, Teachers of the Year, and Outstanding Lancers from 1984 to the present. With the help of Karen Brown, Diane Harris, Vicky Henry, Freda Rollings, Gail Russell, Eric Russell, Melloney Johnson, Peter Koste, Jean Skelton, Dave Wyncoop and the School Spirit Committee a reception was held at Manchester High School to honor those students and teachers. Plaques were presented to the school bearing the names of those individuals at the Monacan verses Manchester Varsity Basketball game. At this event, the best of Manchester's past and present came together to salute the promising future.

Pauline Harris, mother-in-law of the Business Department's chairperson, Frances Harris, discusses her many experiences at Manchester with Mr. Koste. Mrs. Harris was Manchester High School's Valedictorian in 1928.

Dear Ricky,

Son

I may have criticized you
for things that you have done,
But I only want the very best
For you, my little one.

I may offer you advice
That you think you will not need,
But it's only because I love you
And I want you to succeed.

I may not tell you quite enough;
I guess I thought you knew,
That I love you so very much,
And I am proud of you!
